Once known as Brugu Kutch, Bharuch the headquarter of the district of the same name was even known to Greeks as Baragaza and was a thriving port having maritime links with many south, central as well as middle east countries.

Bharuch district has 662 villages in its eight talukas. Lokmata river Narmada flows from this district. National highway no. 8 passes from this district. Oil field of Ankelaswar and other adjoining area are being explored by O.N.G.C., the leading joint sector undertaking. G.N.F.C is also located near Bharuch.

Dahej is fast developing port. Industrial estates of Zagadia and Ankelaswar are the main nerve center of industrial progress of the district.

Shuklatirth and Kabirvad are holy places on the banks of Narmada.
